Digital publicity

April 18, 2012 • Updated on April 20, 2012 at 6:50pm

In terms of share of the advertising market, the Internet got to an index of 5.11%. That means a greater participation than the traditional sectors such as Pay Per View (4.19%), radio (3.97%), external means of communication (3.02%) and guides and checklists (1.12%). The internet still remains far away from the hegemony of broadcast television (63.3%), but it is approximating to the advertising revenues of magazines (7.15%) and represents almost half of the news (11.83%).

Grows twice the market average.
